PEARLS IN DENTOTHERAPEUTICS

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This Program is designed to help dental practitioners update their patients with the latest therapeutic, non-prescription oral health care products as well as prescribed products. This program will review recent developments of oral health care products including mouthrinses and dentifrices. The course will also present information on medication related issues important to dental practice including bisphosphonates, xerostomia and medication related oral tissue changes. These issues are important not only for maintenance of the natural dentition but also for implant maintenance.

COURSE OBJECTIVES:

The participant will better understand the answers to the following questions:

- Understand effects of systemic medications on oral health
- Learn the role of non-prescription dental care products in maintaining oral health
- Understand factors affecting maintenance of the natural dentition and implants

SPEAKER:

Sebastian G. Ciancio, D.D.S., is Distinguished Service Professor and Chairman in the Department of Periodontics and Endodontics and is the Director of the Center for Dental Studies at the State University of New York (SUNY) at Buffalo, in Buffalo, New York.
